PRESSURE WASHING AND GRAFFITI REMOVAL

Pressure washing is a cleaning technique that is used extensively for the external cleaning of concrete car parks, paths and driveways, external walls and roofs. Pressure washing is also extensively used to clean mechanical, transportation, manufacturing and food processing equipment.

Pressure washing produces a variable stream of either water or cleaning chemical and is used as a replacement for hand scrubbing in large areas or where surfaces are very soiled. Some surfaces, such as cracked, painted or other sealed surfaces, may be sensitive or inappropriate for pressure washing.

Selecting the appropriate equipment, chemicals and cleaning method is essential to performing the task safely and efficiently.

Section 1 – Assess job for pressure washing

Section 2 – Select equipment and chemicals

Section 3 – Prepare the area for cleaning
